First listen to Kate:

I like being active and I like going out, so living in the country would be boring, compared to the city. I like the crowds of people all busy walking around and especially I like going to clubs. Being with many people and talking to new people is something that I like very much.

This is Al:

I think ideally I'd like to do both – be rich and have a house in the country and a house in the city. I'd love to spend my weekdays in the country, in a stone house, and go to the city on weekends and party.

Here's what Joel says:

Well, I've lived in very big cities for most of my life: Tokyo, Bangkok, Los Angeles, and now is the first time ever that I've lived in the country and I'm finding that I like it a lot better. I have time to do things that I could never do in the city, like playing the guitar or even reading the news, and I'm enjoying a peaceful lifestyle a lot more than the busy city life.

Now listen to Martin.

Well, I grew up in the country on a very small farm and it was kind of boring. I enjoyed the clean air and the wildlife around but it was in the middle of nowhere. The city is much more exciting and there is a lot more to do and see and experience, so by and large, the city for me is the way to go.

Finally listen to Mitchell:

Well, I'm from the islands and everything is more peaceful and relaxed, and time seems to go by slowly there. I just love it! In a city, everyone is in a rush, moving around fast, trying to get things done as soon as possible. That is a way of life I can't imagine for myself. No way!

The story of two millionaires

Who are the richest people in your country? Where does their money come from and how do they spend their money? You are going to hear the story of two millionaires. One was very generous and people say he was the nicest man in the world. The other was very mean and one of the most hated women in the world.

Every morning, billionaire Milton Petrie walked from his New York apartment and bought a newspaper from the ragged old man on the street corner. One morning the man wasn't there. Petrie learned that he was very ill in the city hospital. Immediately he paid his hospital bill and later, when the man died, paid for his funeral.

The old man was just one of many people that Milton Petrie helped with his money. Whenever he read about personal disasters in his newspaper Petrie sent generous cheques, especially to the families of policemen or fire-fighters injured at work. He also sent cheques to a mother who lost five children in a fire, and a beautiful model whose face was cut in a knife attack. It cost him millions of dollars, but he still had millions left. He said that he was lucky in business and he wanted to help those less fortunate than himself. 'The nice thing is, the harder I work, the more money I make, and the more people I can help.'

Milton Petrie died in 1994, when he was 92. His will was 120 pages long because he left $150 million to 383 people. His widow, Carroll, his fourth and last wife, said his generosity was a result of the poverty of his early years. He was born on August 5, 1902, in Salt Lake City, USA. The family later moved to Indiana, and Mr. Petrie dreamed of earning his living as a baseball player. His family were poor but kind-hearted. His father was a Russian immigrant, who became a policeman, but he never arrested anyone, he was too kind. He couldn't even give a parking ticket.

But not all millionaires are as generous as Milton Petrie. One of the richest but most hated women in the world was Hetty Green. She was born in Massachusetts in 1835. Her father died when she was 21 and he left her $7.5 million. Hetty Green went to New York and invested on Wall Street. She saved every penny, eating in the cheapest restaurants for 15 cents. She always argued about prices in shops. She never bought clothes and always wore the same long black skirt. When she died in 1916 she left her children $100 million. Her daughter built a hospital with her money.
